CLIEBRATION OF ASH WEDNESDAY-NO

RI. SERVICES AT ST. ALBAN'S CHAPEL-How the Day was Observed in the Cathone Churches - Yesterday being Ash ednesday, the various Catholic and Ppiscopal Churches throughout the city were thrown open for the solemn penetential services and coromonies peculiar to this, services and coremonies peculiar to this, the Lenten season. While at the most of the Episcopal churches the attendance of worshipers was unusually large and the extemonies remarkably impressive, it was at Si. Alban's Chapel—the great centre of ceremonial worship—the forms and writes pertaining to the occasion were most rigidly observed. As is well know, the congregation worshiping at this church is composed entirely of the advocates of Ritualism, or outward forms and ceremonies. The dispute which has arisen in the Episcopal Church, both in this country and England, regarding this vexed question of Ritualism, attracts general public attention to St. Alban's Chapel, as it is the great representation church of the Ritualistic doctrine in
